Fostering safe and supportive environments

Providing affordable, accessible and high-quality senior living care has never been more complex. Today's senior living population is ballooning along with an aging demographic. Residents are living longer and present with more complex medical, social and functional issues than ever before. Additionally, COVID-19 has made infection prevention and control mission critical within all facilities.

Consequently, successful senior living spaces need to deliver an experience that feels like home, while safeguarding against injury and outbreaks, both seasonal and pandemic. Furniture within these settings can help shape a built environment that provides the safe delivery of clinical services while supporting resident comfort, independence, dignity and respect.

Your trusted partner for senior living

For over 35 years, customers have trusted Global to help create senior living spaces that support comfort, safety, ability and well-being. These are caring places where both residents and staff feel they belong.

The Global difference

Looks and Performance

All of our products are designed to make cleaning and disinfecting in a COVID world easy, without sacrificing aesthetics or user comfort.

Collaborative Development

Our suite of products has been developed in collaboration with you. Prototyping and testing our furniture in the field ensures each piece we bring to market responds to your evolving needs.

Made for Canadians by Canadians

We own our manufacturing facilities and localized supply chain, allowing us to set the standard for customization, quality, durability and value.

Long-term Relationships

We have built our company one relationship at a time. You can rely on our commitment to go the extra mile at every point with you.

Creating caring spaces

Global provides specialized healthcare furniture that meets both the functional and aesthetic demands of senior care settings. Furniture that:

- feels like home
- promotes mobility and independence
- makes it easier to provide care
- supports infection prevention and control

St. Joseph's Lifecare Centre

Furniture that feels like home

Product details that mimic residential design evoke a sense of luxury and timelessness.

- natural looking finishes and textiles incorporate color, texture and warmth into a space
- contemporary styling and special attention paid to “sit and fit” ensures each furniture piece is a pleasure to look at and use

Les Habitations Bordeleau

“

You never find a place exactly like home. So if you can come close to it, this is a good place to start.

Audrey, Resident, Lifecare Centre

“

There's no question we didn't want our space to look like a traditional old age home. Having leather-like finishes you can wash and disinfect, furniture that features contemporary lines, that you can easily move to create your own little corners of comfort, that make you feel like you're in a boutique hotel. To find furniture that achieves all that was a great win for us.

Jean Larocque, Principal Architect, Larocque Elder Architects

Furniture that promotes mobility and independence

Ergonomic features support staff and resident activities and tasks.

- inclusion of egress arms on chairs, foam density carefully calibrated to ensure comfort, support and seats at optimal heights are just a few features that help make the business of moving about easier
- recliners that can be self-adjusted and dining room tablets that slide up or down and allow residents in wheelchairs to join the group, all encourage independence and satisfaction

“

I like that I can get in and out of my chair myself. The arms are just the right height.

Pam, Resident, Lifecare Centre

“

It's amazing the difference the right chair makes. Our lounge chairs are colorful, safe to use and well-built. They support mobility, making it easy for residents to get in and out. Putting them in our entrance area has encouraged our residents to watch and be interested in what's happening outside.

Sherry Janzen, Chief Executive Officer, Salem Home

Furniture that makes it easier to provide care

Products that prevent injury to staff by making it easier to perform daily tasks.

- chairs that assist caregivers in moving residents in/out from tables
- rear tip-and-move wheels make it easy to move chairs without lifting them helps prevent staff injury
- chairs specifically designed to facilitate safe patient transfer
- push bars on recliners to help staff relocate and reorganize
- overbed tables that can be easily adjusted by residents and staff
- weighted and mount-to-floor furniture solutions that minimize movement and improve safety

Encore at Avalon Park Assisted Living & Memory Care

“

We want to create an environment that enables staff to undertake tasks quickly and easily, so they can get down to the important stuff, which is building relationships – because it’s those human connections that really ensure our success.

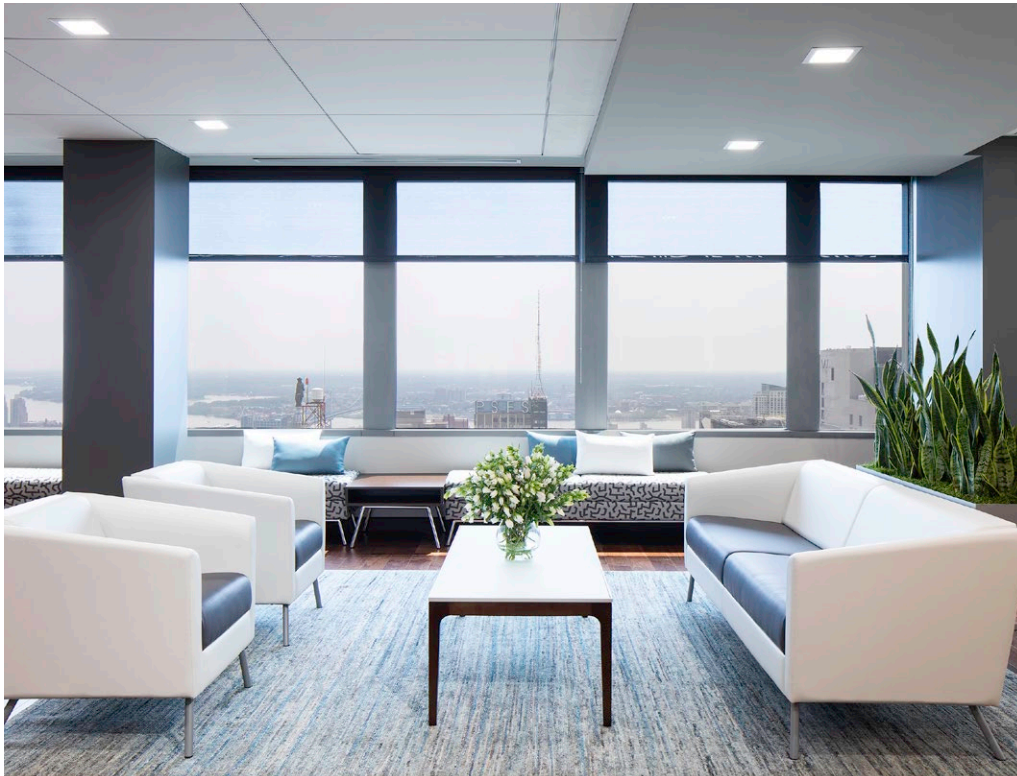

Sherry Janzen, Chief Executive Officer, Salem Home Inc.

Furniture that supports infection prevention and control

Design details and performance finishes that support rigorous, cleaning and disinfecting protocols.

- sealed seams on upholstery prevent tampering while keeping moisture, bacteria and bed bugs out
- furniture that features fully and easily accessible, 360° clean out with no open creases in the metalwork makes disinfecting easy
- extensive offering of high performance textiles ensures the right aesthetic without having to compromise disinfecting protocols or durability

“

One of the largest problems with healthcare and across the board is probably infection control. Furniture and equipment need to be accessible and able to be cleaned freely and often.

Suzanne Testani, Director of Care, Lifecare Centre

“

Our challenge is to balance resident safety with quality-of-life. We want to create family-like settings that replicate the home environment. Furniture has to be both safe and flexible, but perhaps, most importantly support a sense of connection and place.

Cindy Rodych, Principal at Rodych Integrated Design, and Lead Designer for the Alzheimer Centre of Excellence (ACE) Project at the Riverview Hospital

Furniture that delivers long-term value

Furniture that maintains its looks and function years after purchase.

- shared componentry and assembly procedures make it easy and efficient for in-house staff to maintain and repair furniture on-site, minimizing downtime and saving money
- Global's Lifetime Warranty ensures relevance for years to come

Nipissing Serenity Hospice

Baycrest Health Sciences

“

When we purchase furniture, it needs to last for many years. Being able to repair and maintain our furniture on-site is essential for us as it translates into minimal disruption to staff and residents.

Jay Ayers, Director, St. Joseph's Health System – Group Purchasing Organization
